Subject: Storage Inventory Verification Test

Notice Text: The 2023 inventory verification test for the Midland Storage field is scheduled for September 12, 2023 through September 22, 2023. Firm storage nominations and no-notice storage activity will be limited as provided in the applicable Rate Schedules in the Texas Gas tariff. During these test periods, parking, loaning, and interruptible storage nominations may be scheduled down. Texas Gas encourages all customers to take the test period limitations into consideration when planning their business. Texas Gas will make every effort to complete this testing during the scheduled test periods. Texas Gas may suspend the inventory verification test to accommodate market requirements of its firm customers. If suspended, Texas Gas will reschedule the test for a later date.

No-Notice Customers -

During the inventory verification test, No-Notice customers' daily storage injection rights will be reduced from a maximum of 1.3% to 0.5% of its total Unnominated Seasonal Quantity during the test period. As provided in Rate Schedules NNS and SGT, Texas Gas will provide storage withdrawal rights to requesting customers on a best efforts basis as long as it can do so without impacting the storage inventory verification test.

FSS Customers -

FSS customers daily storage injection rights will be reduced from a maximum of 1.3% to 0.5% of its total Maximum Seasonal Quantity during the test period.

SNS Customers -

SNS customers daily injection and withdrawal rights will be performed on a best efforts basis. Texas Gas may temporarily adjust the injection and withdrawal limits to allow make-up quantities on succeeding days.

FSS-M Customers -

FSS-M customers contractual rights are directly associated with the Midland expansion facilities that will be unavailable during the test period. Therefore, no injection or withdrawal activity will be permitted under FSS-M for the duration of the inventory verification test.
